foreword

The world is one vast experiment.
Progress is everywhere;
The atom, the x-ray, the airplane,
All are products of science.
We, too, are scientists;
Our experiment is Life,
And the school is our laboratory.
Here we mix the various elements
Of work, athletics, social life;
And from here comes the molded product,
A Life, the richer for experience.
So filled with vision and courage
We of Marshall face the future.
Now turn this page,
And view our laboratory
And our work.

Fred
Best of every thing to you, you're a real pal & a terrific Trumbone player.
I really hope we'll be friends
or a long time to come.
Lots of Luck.
Love & regards
Otto

dedication

To Progress and to Science
We dedicate this book.
To our science department;
To its teachers,
Who guide us in our quest;
To the students,
Past, present, and future;
And to all scientific adventurers
Who plan for a better world
We dedicate this book.

the best scientific apparatus

You are attending high school at a time when the social pattern of the world about you is being rapidly changed by the irresistible push of progress.

The significant advance of scientific progress has given us rockets, guided missiles, and ships with which to master space, and the atomic submarine to control the sea lanes.

Laboratory research has given us scientific safeguards for better health and more dependable control for many of the dreaded diseases of mankind. Much of the natural environment now has been conquered.

This progress in science has been a contributing factor in helping the United States to reach its present position of world leadership.

Our schools have aided greatly in this scientific program by helping students to develop an inquiring mind which some people say is the most important apparatus in any scientific investigation.

Keep your curiosity active.

JOHN MARSHALL
HIGH SCHOOL

our head technicians

This past year the advisers in John Marshall, as in a laboratory, guided all production that favored progress. These advisers discovered and directed the interests and abilities of each student, considering always the need of the student and of society. Their tasks were arduous but they gave of themselves in service for the advancement and development of each student.

mathematics department

During the past year the math department offered a great variety of courses. They included eighth grade math, elementary through advanced algebra, plane geometry and solid geometry, and trigonometry. Marshall was fortunate to have an excellent teaching staff to guide the students science department

growing

During the past year the science department offered a great variety of courses. They included elementary and advanced physics, chemistry and biology. Students were given the opportunity to work with the research equipment in their classrooms learning Archimedes principle of buoyancy. The students also had the opportunity to work with the research equipment in these fields language department

Pupils in classes of Spanish and French used recordings by native speakers to accompany their textbook reading lessons. During their free time they listened to the disks in order to improve their pronunciation of the foreign language

Various types of sound films in Spanish and French were shown for the first time this year. Films narrated in English emphasized some of the values of Latin and modern foreign languages

the history department

This year the social studies department devoted considerable time to the current national and international scene. This factor in the curriculum prepared the students to be better citizens, a chief concern of our school. Along with the history of the past, the curriculum helped all the students to be intelligent toward national and world problems and thus not only become citizens of the United States but citizens of the world

home economics

The home economics department offered a variety of courses including cooking, nutrition, sewing, and child care. The students learned how to prepare meals, maintain a budget, and manage their money.

experimental stations business department

Many courses were available, including business, secretarial, and accounting. These provided a foundation which many students took to prepare for careers or further studies. The students also gained experience in the business field.

typing

practical arts

The practical arts classes in our school were not only for fundamental training in a certain craft or for the fun of it, but students were taught how to think in an organized manner and how to co-operate on the job.

Three of the boys in the Art Department, Bruce Bremser, and Ronald Moran, won certificates and cash awards for their achievement in metal shop from the Ford Motor Company.

wood shop

art department

In the art department the students were taught to express themselves in their favorite media. By supplying pupils with brushes, paints, and helpful guidance, the prospective artists not only improved their drawing skill but enjoyed the experience. Some of the projects this year were posters for the various campaigns, art work for the Scholastic Art Exhibit, photographs and sketches for the yearbook.

voice class

Under the direction of Mr. Snelton, vocal training was made available for pupils in the work. Through the use of vocal exercises, proper control of the breathing muscles, and according to the age level and individual capacities, fine, well-tuned voices are developed.

the library

The John Marshall library is one of the most important rooms in the building. It served this year not only as a material and reading center but also as a guidance and teaching agency. This year with the help of the new Librarian, Miss Hilfiker, and her assistant, Mrs. Udertz the students aided in administering and running the library by establishing a Senior Advisory Board and a corps of library aides.

Something new was added this year to the variety of offerings at John Marshall High School; a one-semester course, Senior Problems, was begun to help seniors to make a smooth transfer from high school to college or to a job. The course was divided into three sections of six weeks each and covered content and skills needed in mathematics, economics, and college or job orientation.

executive council

The executive council this year was composed of fourteen members. Five commissioners, five grade representatives, and the four elected Student Association officers who acted as officers of the council. The council's objective was to keep Marshall High on the list of prominent high schools. It succeeded to accomplish this by proclaiming a courtesy month, by developing school athletic morale, by providing dances after night basketball games, and securing a more balanced school activity program.

national honor society

The National Honor Society, a nation wide honorary organization of high school students, bases its membership on scholarship, leadership, service, and character. The John Marshall chapter, headed by Miss Mayo, elected this year about thirty students from the junior and senior classes on the basis of these qualities. Membership in the Society was restricted scholastically to the top five per cent of the junior class and the top fifteen percent of the senior class.

legislature

rocket power

The law making body of our representative government, the legislature, was composed of an elected representative and alternate from each homeroom. The chairman was Bob Bock, Vice-President of the Students' Association. He was under the able guidance of Mr. Goetz and Miss Turula. Meetings were held periodically and each representative reported to the homeroom the activities of the legislature. Representatives took charge of the Students' Association drive, the sale of the John Quill, the Memorial Scholarship Fund, the March of Dimes drive and the Red Cross drive.

rating clerks

Rating blanks were filled out by the pupils after each marking period. These blanks were checked and signed by a chosen student in each homeroom called the rating clerk. This was just part of his job. He arranged the blanks according to marks, took the median, and reported the five highest students in his homeroom to his teacher. Later these reports were turned in to Mrs. Olmstead who directed all procedures.

banking clerks

The idea of school saving has gone far since its origin in France in the year 1834. It came to the United States in 1887 and to Rochester in 1915. This year our crew of 42 boys in banking clerks with the assistance of Mr. Prism tried to do their share to fill the armored car which arrived regularly every Monday morning.

flameholders

This past year the Docket staff, assisted by Mrs. Biddle, published six editions of the paper. The editorial staff, headed by editor-in-chief, Charles Greene, made it their goal to present a paper that was both informative and interesting to the student body. Included in three editions was a special rotogravure section, the Scholastic Roto. Last November four of the staff attended the Empire State School Press Association Conference at Syracuse. An editorial and cartoon entitled Double-Barred Crosses won second place in the Scholastic Press Project.

The John Marshall Radio Workshop under the direction of Mrs. Saunders successfully presented Friday morning broadcasts entitled "Marshall Unlimited" which consisted of sports announcements, special events, and music.

Along with the pleasure gained in presenting these programs extensive knowledge in production management, engineering sound effects, script writing, and acting was acquired.

The Sports Announcers aimed to create school spirit and encourage large attendance at all athletic events through radio and assembly announcements.

junior band and orchestra

The members of the junior Band worked hard this year to prove their fitness for their ultimate goal — Senior Band. They played in assemblies under the leadership of Ray Mueller, student conductor, and at the time of the spring concert. The officers this year were as follows: President, Bill Scherzer; Vice President, same, McCabe; Secretary-Treasurer, David Nash, and Uniforms, Ray Mueller.

The orchestra completed an interesting year playing at the Senior Day graduation, and the annual spring Concert. Special concerts presented at five grammar schools gave added experience to the group.

The credit for the orchestra's success goes to the director, Mr. Roy Thrall, whose interest in the organization provided the incentive to work hard.

Under the direction of Mr. Roy S. Thrall, the John Marshal Senior Band, ninety seven strong, gave us another year of superb performances, including several school concerts, many out-of-dates music at every assembly, and precision marching at football games and the Memorial Day Parade. The officers for this year were William Hamm, President; Mary Newton, Vice President; Frank LoPresti, Secretary; Treasurer; William Kruger, Librarian; and George Higgins, Student Conductor.

senior choir

Under the direction of Harold Singleton and accompanied by Mrs. Laura Remington, the Senior Choir completed another successful year.

The choir, made up of tenth, eleventh, and twelfth graders produced fine work this year; several soloists have contributed greatly to the success of this musical organization.

the senior play

The Divine Flora, selected by a committee of student officers, aided by the director, was cast from sixty or more students who volunteered for try-outs. Choices for the roles were made by the students themselves. Selecting the play and casting it were preliminary to five weeks of daily rehearsals (from three to five o'clock) and two evening dress rehearsals. Drama students assisted with the make-up and the properties. The stage crew devised an ingenious setting for the prologue and arranged an attractive seaside living room with backings to suggest sky and sea for the main action. The climax to weeks of cooperative effort was furnished by an appreciative audience of students and parents.

girls' sports

There was an excellent turn-out for girls' after-school activities during 1953-1954. This year the sports program included badminton, volleyball, basketball, soccer, baseball, and swimming. The bowling, stunts, apparatus, and modern dance clubs were also very successful and to top off the season, the boys joined with the girls to make ping-pong a very popular activity.

Coach Davis

The 1953 version of the John Marshall Football Team proved to be the best in the last ten years. Not only was the over all record of 3 wins and 3 losses the best in a decade, but the team showed fine spirit and fight. The jurists split the first four games, beating Fairport 25-20, trouncing Dansville 33-0 and losing to Charlotte 19-6 and Jeff 20-7. The fifth game saw the gridmen pull out a 12-7 verdict over West. The final game of the season saw the jurists lose a heartbreak 21-20 loss to Madison after leading for 3 quarters.

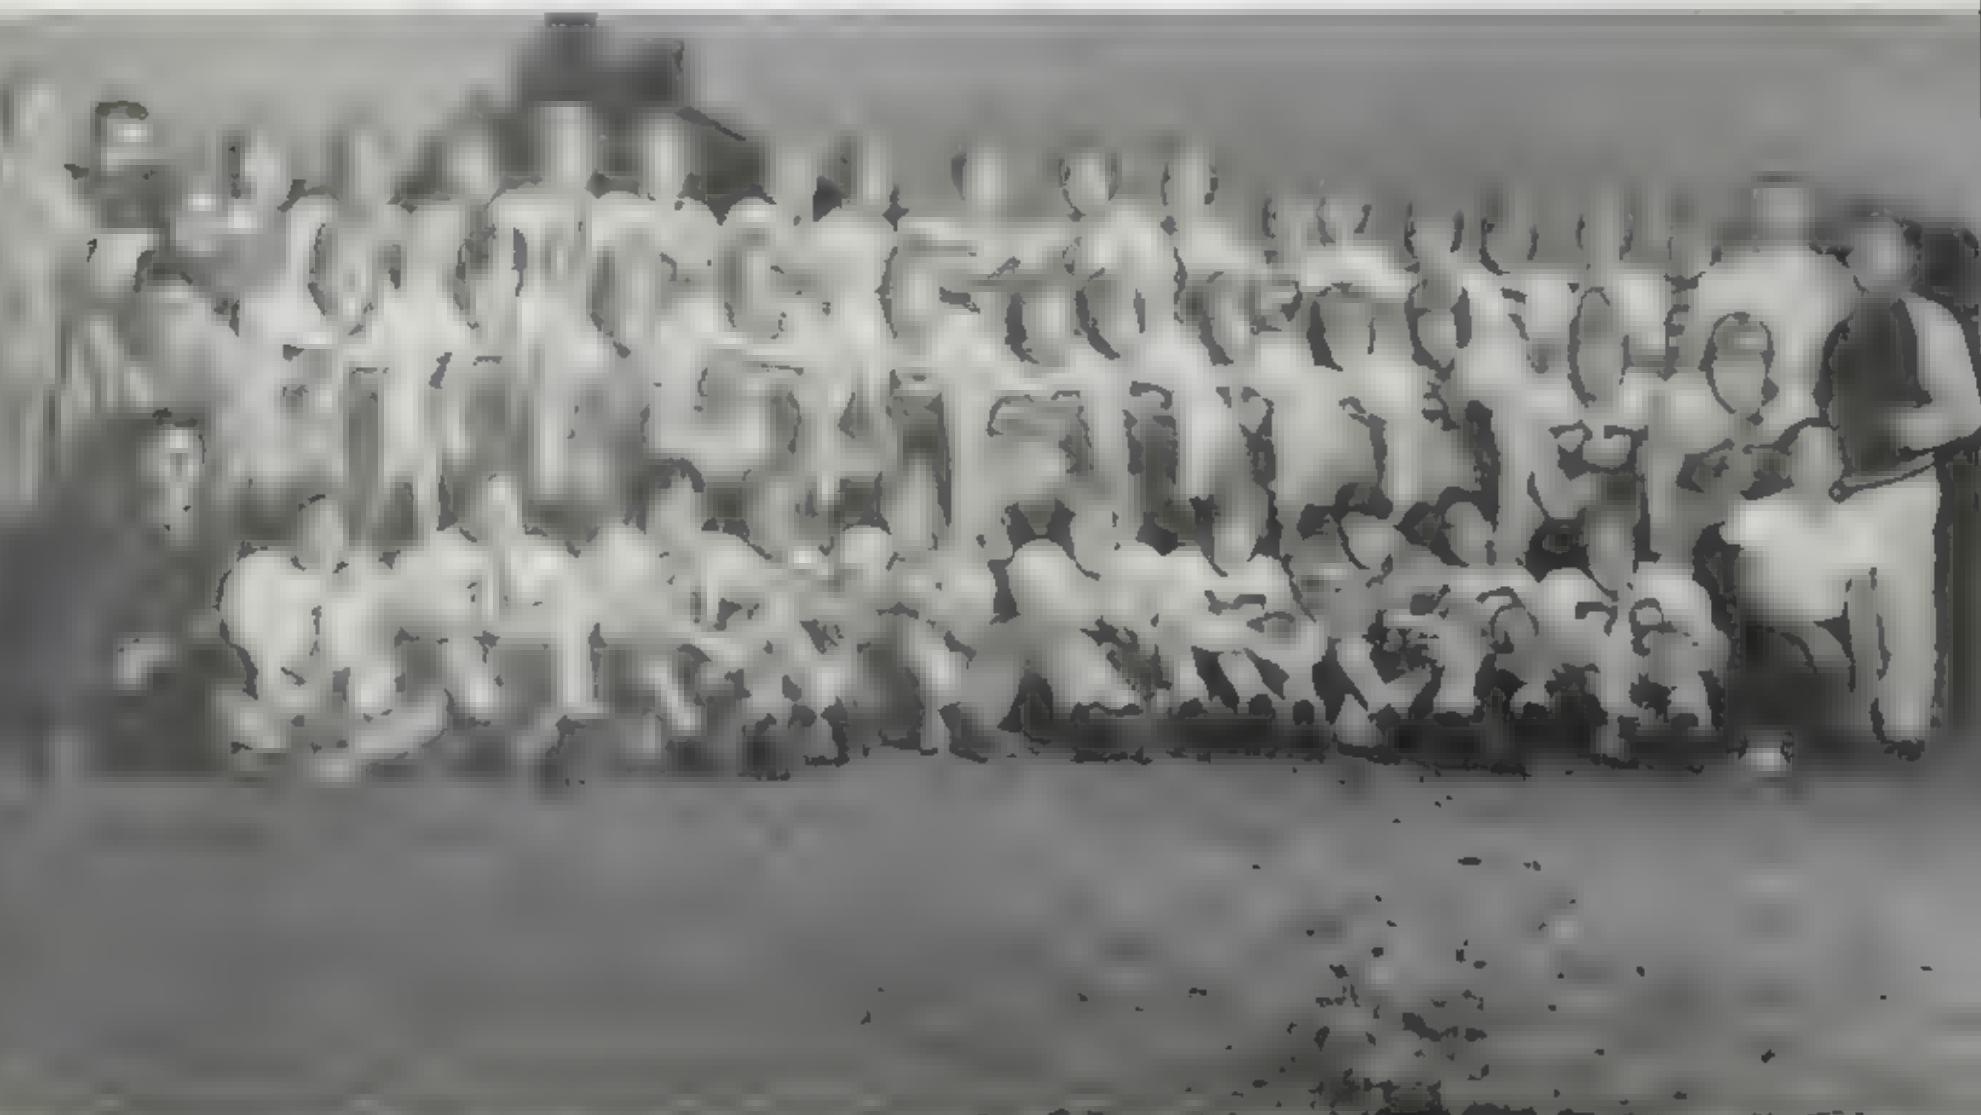

The individual standouts for Marshall were "Big Don" Axon, whose stellar line play netted him an All-Scholastic berth; and "Dick" Lewis and John Marvin, both of whom made second team.

The team was ably coached by Coach Davis with assistants, Mr. Butz and Mr. Stewart cross country 1953

It's hats off to the Hill and Dale men and their new coach, Mr. Guglin. The cross country team brought home the first city and sectionals in ever. They had a team at Marshall. They swept through the city competition and at the sectionals in Geneva. The boys really showed their teamwork and bested 13 teams to win the crown. Among the early finishers at all the meets were: Captain, Robert Easton; "Jack" VanDuser; Karl Hawes; Philip Corwin; Ronald Hauck; David Philips; George Higgins; David Jacox and Robert Cairns.

varsity basketball

The 1953-1954 basketball squad showed improvement over the 1952-1953 team by gathering enough percentage to scrape up five wins but dumping too many points causing thirteen losses.

The two top scorers of the twenty game series proved to be William Moore, S. Harter and Larry Skinner with 212 and 171 points respectively.

Through the loss of Donald Axon after the first half of the season, Bernard Prendergast earned a well deserved starting berth and completed the year with a total of 92 points. The other two able starters were Charles Weaver, who maintained a superb set shot, and William Hicks who possessed the forever-accurate side line hits.

All in all, our team, the majority of whom were juniors, played a hard-fought season against some well experienced opposition.

reserve basketball

The reserve basketball team of Marshall drove right on in eleven games and placed third in the Region League. There were two heartbreaking losses to Madison by a score of 67-65 and to First Ray by a score of 59-58 which cost the "Juniors" the region. The team was led by the consistent scoring of Gary Niedermeyer, Robert R. W., and Jack P. J. K., and by the smooth floor play of Ray Axon, Arnold Pommerehne, Robert Simpson, and bowling

Marshall had a successful year for bowling. The boys' league was coached by Mr. Zona. Dave Barclay led the team with the highest average.

Every Tuesday, after school, the girls enjoyed bowling at Domm's Bowling Alleys under the direction of Miss O'Connor. This year the girls joined a national league. Bowling was one of the most popular of the girls' sports.

baseball

The 1953 Baseball team, led by the all-scholastic pitching of "Sammy" Farah, achieved a league record of four wins and four losses and one non-league loss. The season's first game with West was one of the longest ever witnessed in high school ball in Rochester. The West men edged out a 7-6 victory in the long, 11 inning duel. The highlight of the season was Farah's one hitter against Charlotte in which "Sam" won his own game with the winning run. The team was bolstered by the timely hitting of Ronald Harter and the able backstopping of William VanDyke. The team was coached under the skillful eye of Mr. Bushnell.
